Sand Island is an urban shoreline park next to Honolulu Harbor and directly under the airport flight path. It's busy and loud, but very convenient. Camping only happens on weekends when it's open, and right now, the state still lists camping as closed. Most visitors stop by for a short visit rather than staying overnight.

If camping matters for your trip, check directly with the state before making plans.

Activities

Beachgoing and fishing.

Facilities

Campsites, picnic pavilion, picnic table, restroom, showers, trash cans, walking path, and water fountain.

Prohibited

No motorized vehicles/ATVs, no animals/pets, no littering/dumping, and no smoking.

*If you plan to explore this park by campervan, rent here at our partner link Outdoorsy. It gives you more freedom, move around the island, store your gear, and cook simple meals as you go.
