Bellows Field Beach Park sits along a wide stretch of windward beach in Waimānalo. The shoreline feels open and scenic, with steady trade winds and plenty of space between campsites. The campground is part of an active military training area, so access hours and rules are strictly enforced.

If camping matters for your trip, make sure to review the schedule and rules before booking.

Activities

Beachgoing and fishing.

Facilities

Campsites and open beach access. There are 50 total campsites.

Prohibited

No motorized vehicles or ATVs, no pets, no smoking, no dumping, no commercial activities, and no vehicle camping.
